Oakfield leads £2m follow on investment in London Doctors' Clinic

Oakfield completed a £2m expansion capital funding into London Doctors Clinic (LDC), a portfolio company.

Founded in 2014 and commercially launched in 2015, LDC offers convenient and affordable private GP appointments supplemented by ancillary services at nine clinics across major London transport hubs including Soho, Liverpool Street, London Bridge, Kings Cross, Victoria, Waterloo, Fleet Street, Paddington and Canary Wharf.

The investment will support growing the number of clinics in operation, strengthening the management team and launching a comprehensive marketing program.

LDC founder Dr. Seth Rankin said: "As demands on the NHS continue to grow we see a huge opportunity to offer convenient access to affordable GPs for UK residents and tourists who want an appointment at a time and place that suits them. The growth of LDC is strong and we are excited about the next phase of development".

Michael Patton, partner of Oakfield and Chairman of LDC said: "We are pleased with LDC's performance since its commercial launch and look forward to continuing to grow the business over the next year".

Shoosmiths LLP acted as a legal adviser to the Company.
